

APRIL 22-23
2019
University of Kansas

CYBER ATTACKS, INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY & UNIVERSITY OPEN RESEARCH:

THE PERFECT STORM

Colleges and universities are target-rich environments for hackers. Large stores of financial information, research statistics, and intellectual property are often inadequately guarded because of budgetary constraints and understaffing. Moreover, open research is a revered hallmark of academia, which today is being exploited by adversaries. This colloquium will examine the cyberthreat against universities and current initiatives underway to defend against these attacks while maintaining an open educational environment.

MONDAY, APR. 22 @ DOLE INSTITUTE

| 7:00 PM

David Sanger, New York Times national security correspondent and author, The Perfect Weapon

TUESDAY, APR. 23 @ KANSAS UNION

| MORNING

The Strategic Environment:
Cyber Threats & Emerging Issues in Policy & Law

| AFTERNOON

Operational Environment:
Cyber Attacks, Intellectual Property,
& Universities

Register at icca.ku.edu/conference

Free and Open to the Public

Sponsored by the Kansas Consortium-Intelligence Community Center for Academic Excellence, KU Graduate Military Programs, KU School of Law, KU Madison & Lila Self Graduate Fellowship, KU Center for Military, War, & Society Studies, Command and General Staff College Foundation, and the KU Department of Political Science.

Command and General
Staff College Foundation, Inc.

